

ABOUT CENTER FOR THE ARTS EVERGREEN AND THE EVERGREEN SCULPTURE WALK

After 28 years as an independent all-volunteer non-profit organization, in 2023 Sculpture Evergreen merged with Center for the Arts Evergreen (CAE) in Evergreen, Colorado. This arts organization, in the foothills west of Denver, continues with Sculpture Evergreen's mission to collect, display, and maintain sculptural art in predominantly outdoor locations that are freely accessible to the public every day of the week. The sculptures can be viewed and experienced by walking or driving through the Evergreen area.

Sculpture Evergreen (SE) was incorporated in November 1994 as Art for the Mountain Community with the purpose of placing high-quality enduring sculpture in public places. SE's first project was to commission a large, original piece of sculpture to be placed outside the Evergreen Lake House. Spirits of the Land by Madeline Wiener was selected and installed in 1996. Two matching limestone benches with bronze plaques acknowledging major donors, including the Scientific and Cultural Facilities District (SCFD), were installed in 1997. In subsequent years, SE added more than 40 sculptures to the permanent collection.

In 1999, SE began a new venture, the annual Sculpture Walk. This yearly competition brings a lively diversity of high-quality sculpture to the mountain area. Artwork is selected from many submissions, and then loaned to SE for a year. Each of the artists whose work is selected is paid an honorarium. CAE is proud to have taken on the legacy and responsibility of Sculpture Evergreen and the Sculpture Walk in our mountain town.

This map showing the locations of the permanent sculptures and Sculpture Walk art is produced each year and widely distributed. An interactive map of the sculptures is also available on the CAE website at evergreenarts.org. Each of the Sculpture Walk sculptures is for sale, and many have become part of the permanent collection thanks to donations from individuals and others. To maintain this, and all of its programs, CAE receives valuable grant support from the SCFD and Colorado Creative Industries. CAE is also indebted to the generous property owners who allow sculptures to be placed in accessible and scenic locations throughout the community.

PURCHASING SCULPTURE

Did you know that all of our Sculpture Walk art is for sale? Artists loan us their work for a year in the hopes that you will not only enjoy it but also be inspired to buy! Artists receive a stipend to exhibit their work, and CAE receives a percentage of the sales price if it sells. Over the years, many of the Walk pieces have been purchased by enthusiastic collectors as well as the community. All Sculpture Walk pieces, indicated with a gold star and gold numbering, can be purchased through CAE. Please call us at 303-674-0536 for more information about how to make one of these sculptures a permanent part of your location or community.

GIFTS & DONATIONS

Tax-deductible donations make this sculpture collection possible. If you are interested in donating towards public art in our mountain community, please visit evergreenarts.org.

TOUR TIP:

This zone has the most sculptures—28 permanent and long-term loan pieces, and 4 one-year Sculpture Walk pieces. The Bergen and Buchanan Parks Trail is a beautiful walk through the evergreens. Start your tour at Center for the Arts Evergreen and see many of this zone's sculptures on foot.

Then, head farther south and park in the Buchanan Rec Center's lot. You can see 2 sculptures at the Rec Center and enjoy 3 more with a short stroll down the trail to Buchanan Ponds.

ZONE 2

- Central Evergreen
- Mount Evans Hospice
- Stagecoach Park

TOUR TIP:

Zone 2 is primarily a vehicular tour. Begin with the two sculptures on the grounds of the Mount Evans Hospice facility. Then, stay in your vehicle and spot the pieces from afar, or pull over on the roadside to enjoy the sculptures up close as you tour the Elk Meadow and Stagecoach corridor. The brief hill climb to visit Bob the Dinosaur is well worth the photo opportunity.

ZONE 4

- South Evergreen
- Evergreen Library
- Wulf Rec Center

TOUR TIP:

Zone 4 includes the Evergreen Library—home to the Tom Ware piece Planting Evergreen. Tom Ware was a much-loved sculptor who called Evergreen home for many years. There you'll also find the aptly placed Checking Out in front of the building. Drive over to nearby Wulf Rec Center and Wilmot Elementary to see three more permanent collection sculptures.

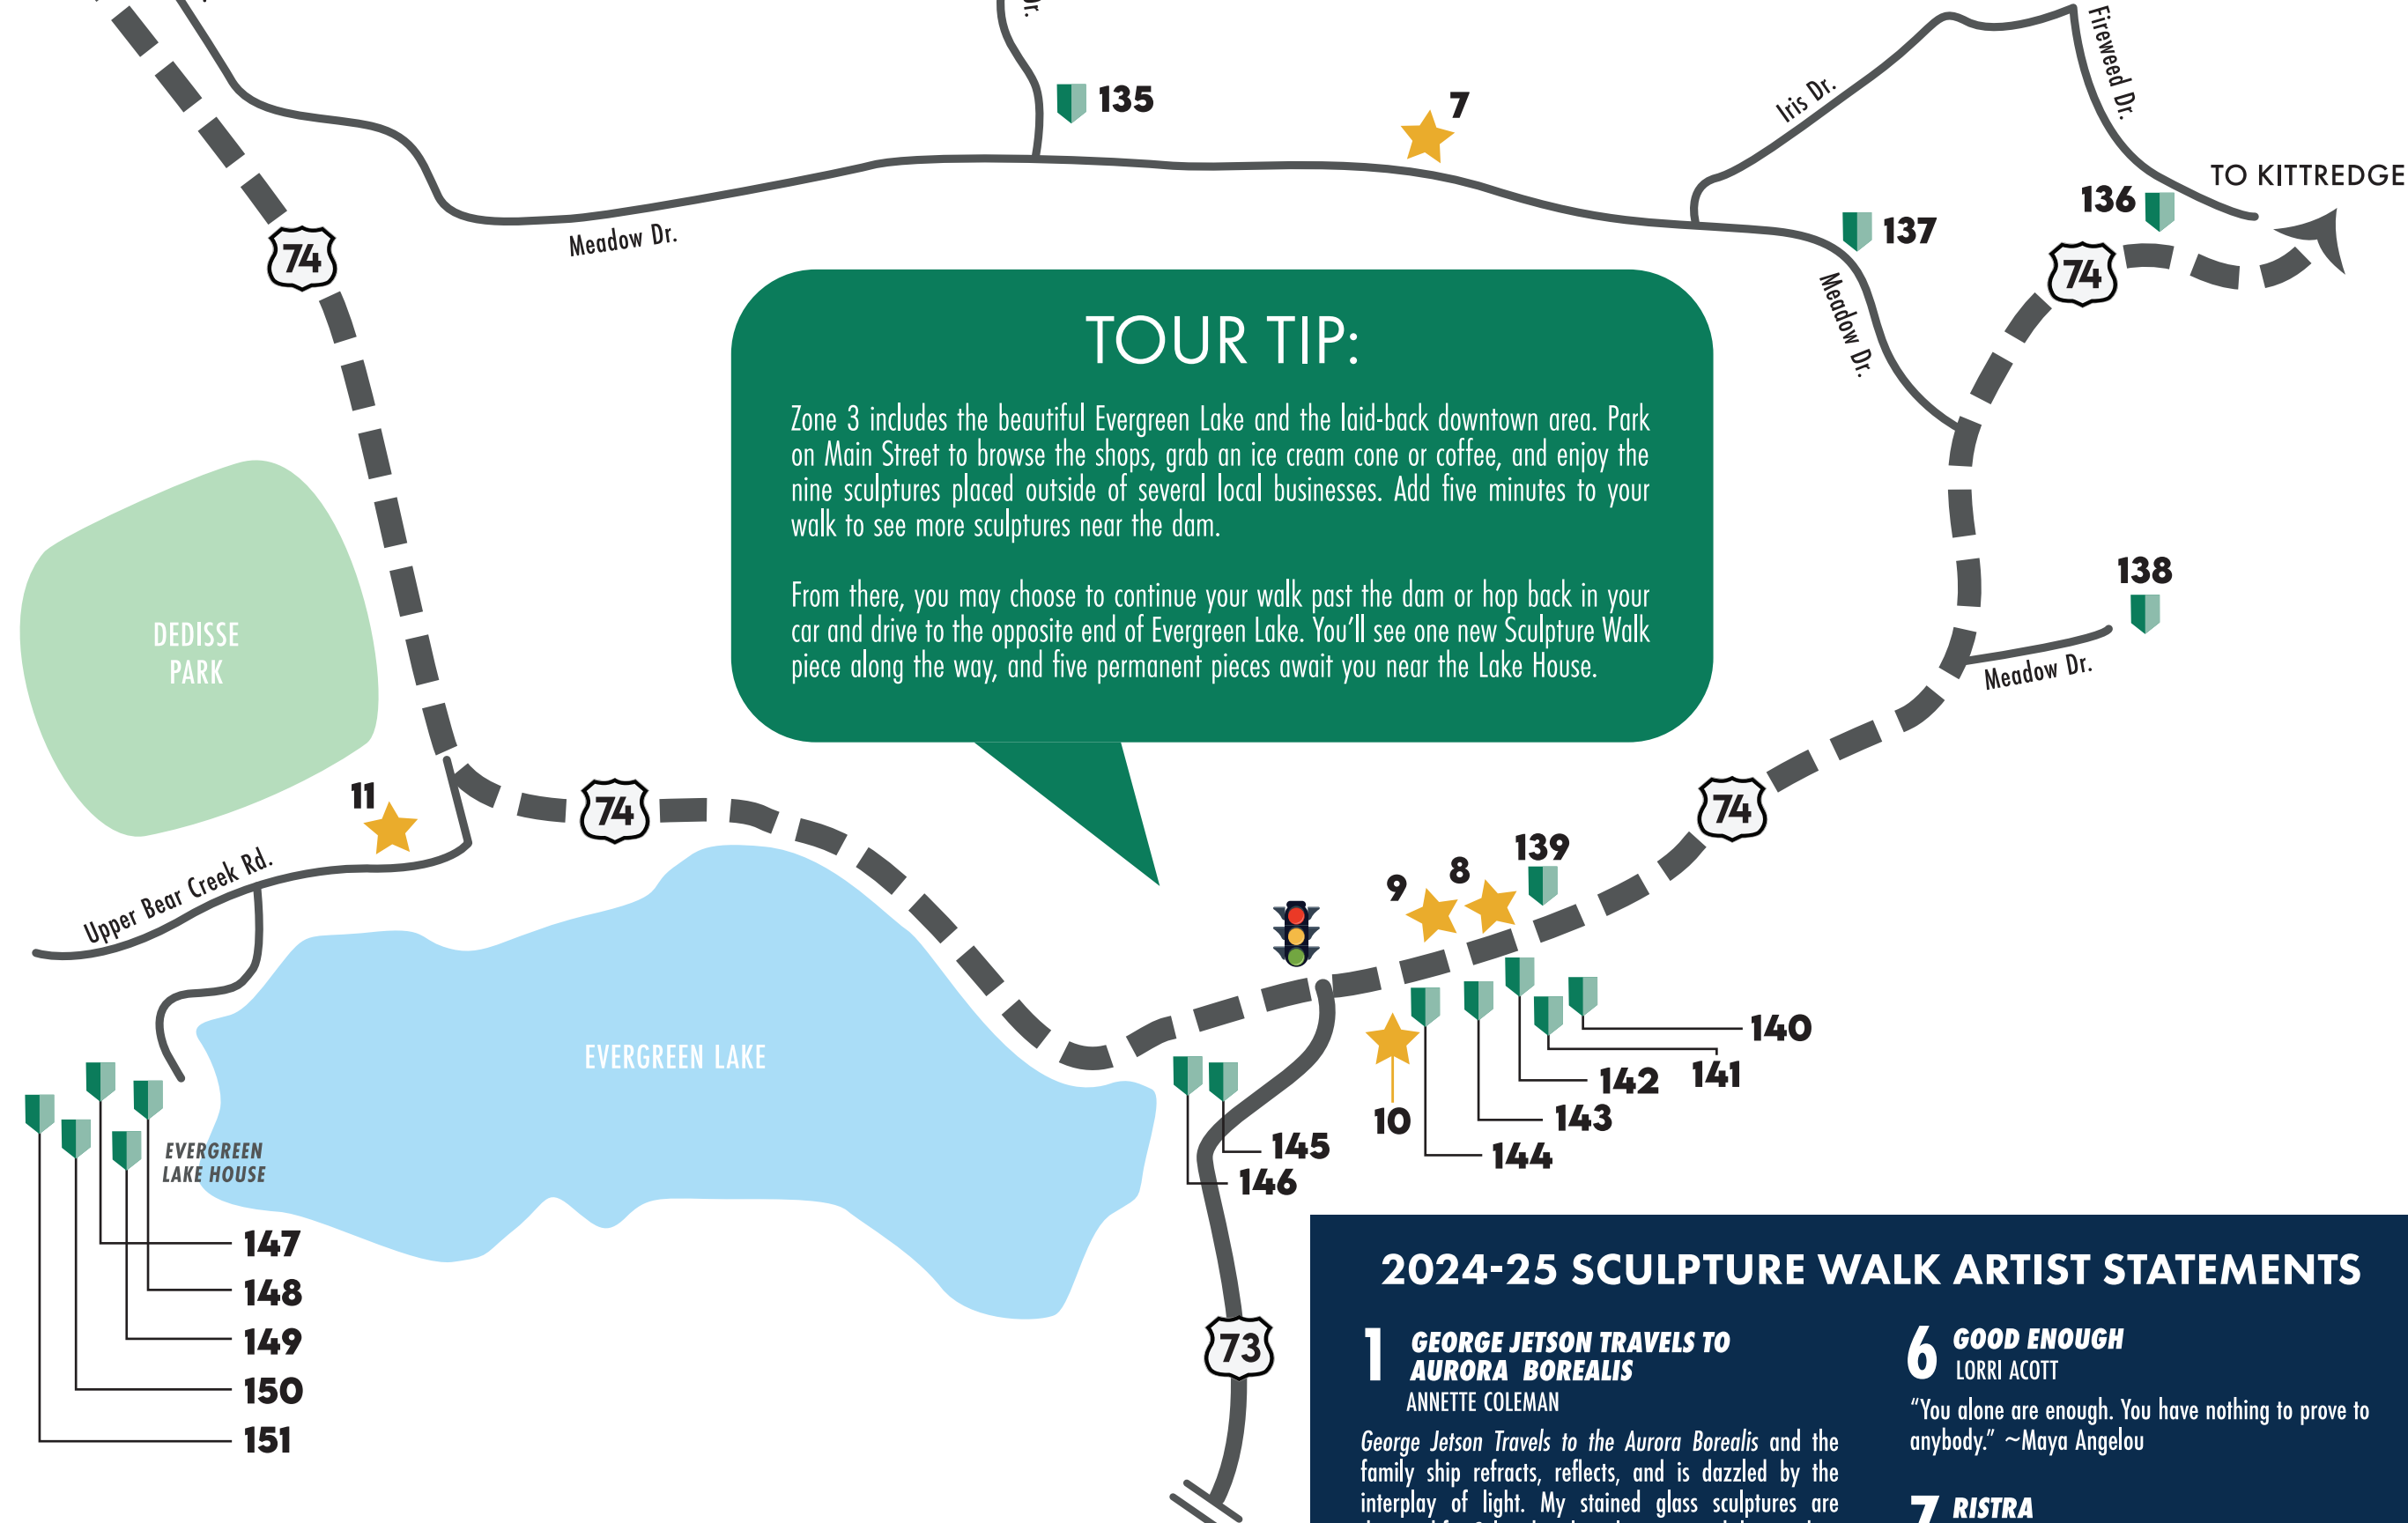

ZONE 3

- Downtown Evergreen
- Evergreen Lake House
- Meadow Drive

TOUR TIP:

Zone 3 includes the beautiful Evergreen Lake and the laid-back downtown area. Park on Main Street to browse the shops, grab an ice cream cone or coffee, and enjoy the nine sculptures placed outside of several local businesses. Add five minutes to your walk to see more sculptures near the dam.

From there, you may choose to continue your walk past the dam or hop back in your car and drive to the opposite end of Evergreen Lake. You'll see one new Sculpture Walk piece along the way, and five permanent pieces await you near the Lake House.

2024-25 SCULPTURE WALK ARTIST STATEMENTS

1 GEORGE JETSON TRAVELS TO AURORA BOREALIS ANNETTE COLEMAN

George Jetson Travels to the Aurora Borealis and the family ship refracts, reflects, and is dazzled by the interplay of light. My stained glass sculptures are designed for Colorado celestial viewers and the weather. Snow slides off and rain cleans off the stardust.

2 GIRLY CURL HAROLD LINKE

Girly Curl floats away. She shows form without volume and intent without destination. She looks over her shoulder to charm admirers.

3 COMPASSION JEANNINE YOUNG

Compassion was inspired by a very dear friend who was always reaching out to support and comfort those around her. This sculpture was originally welded in steel. Then a mold was made. Finally, a bronze casting was created by the lost wax casting process.

4 SNOWY OWL 2 STEPHEN LANDIS

The Snowy Owl is mainly a circumpolar species, which means that individuals live and nest in the far north regions around the North Pole. In the non-breeding season, this species can also be found in areas of southern Canada, but rarely in Colorado and the northern United States.

5 OMNI CHARLOTTE & BEN ZINK

Omni is a Latin prefix meaning: all, of all things, in all ways or all places. The solid steel rings spin, cascade, and dance our eyes up and around toward the sky, giving the sensation of movement in stillness. May there be endless rainbows to light our way forward; may our connected circle be unbroken.

6 GOOD ENOUGH LORRI ACOTT

"You alone are enough. You have nothing to prove to anybody." ~Maya Angelou

7 RISTRA ALEX BARRETT

Ristra is part of a series of sculptures that are inspired by biomorphic structures. Ristra is essentially one shape that I use as the seed or gourd. It is the inflated element in the center. The vine or the aura is the structure that surrounds and supports the center.

8 COMMON BOND FRANK MORBILLO

This sculpture reflects the common bonds we share as well as the stresses we face in our day-to-day lives. Made of stainless and bronze on a steel pedestal, this sculpture is well suited for a public environment.

9 BASKING PATI STAJCAR

My red-eared slider named Rabbit was 31 years old when I sculpted him. He measured about 12 inches in real life but his personality was this big!

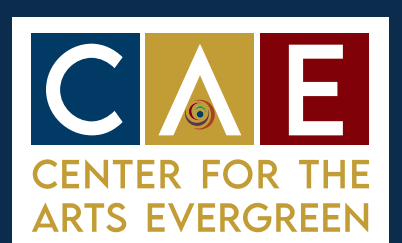

10 LOVE STORY ADAM SCHULTZ

Reading a love story, the figure stops to reflect on her dreams for herself and her hopes for the future. She sits on a bench inviting the viewer to sit down and dream with her. "To dream the impossible dream is to believe in tomorrow."

11 WHISPERS OF SPRING CHARLOTTE & BEN ZINK

The title of this piece is Whispers of Spring. This bright garden tower brings the whispers of our upcoming spring—with a light sprinkling of dandelions, bees' first food source in the spring, blowing in the gentle breeze.

Center for the Arts Evergreen is grateful for the many organizations that generously support the arts in our mountain community, including:
